Dear Bob:

On returning from a trip to Europe, your letter of 27 August concerning [REDACTED] [REDACTED] has been brought to my attention.

I do not recall working with him and a check of the OSS records fails to reveal anyone with that organization of the names you mention.
However, it was nice hearing from you again.

With kindest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles

Director, Central Intelligence Agency

Dear Allen:

Some clients of mine, for business reasons, are interested in checking upon the background of a person called

STATINTL

The reason why I am taking the liberty of writing to you about this is that he has told my clients that he worked closely with you during World War II and performed dangerous exploits with you abroad. His description of his personal relationship with you during World War II is such that, if true, it is probable that you would remember him.

I would appreciate it very much if you would let me know whether you remember the person named above.

Sincerely yours,

Bob Augenblick
